

VSO Software Newsletter n°30

January 2014

In this issue:

- What's new?
- Did you know?

---

The VSO Team wishes you all the best for 2014: joy, health and superb videos!

What's new?

- On the way to ultimate Blu-ray conversion

Last month we introduced the feature to create Blu-ray and AVCHD structure. Our goal for the coming weeks is to add new features, like video menu creation. 11 menu templates will soon be available in Blu-ray Converter, DVD Converter and VSO Video Converter, so stay tuned!

- Compare our video conversion programs

We now offer 4 different video conversion programs. Check out our review to discover and compare the features of each software.

- Make the most of your Christmas presents

Are you the lucky owner of an Ipad, a new smartphone, a game console or a Blu-ray player? Then you need VSO Video Converter to play videos on these devices. As an "all-in-one" tool, it fulfills all your video converting needs. Find out why you will not be able to resist it :-).

And if you have a Go-pro style camera, you'll need VSO Video Converter to convert your videos to any device or disk.

Did you know?

- Check if your files will fit on a DVD

If you have a large project with big files, then you want to make sure they will fit on a DVD with optimal quality. Simply load your files in any of our video conversion program and check the conversion advisor at the bottom of the treeview. The color is an indication of the size and quality of the project. If it's in the red or orange, you will have to use a Double Layer DVD (DL DVD or DVD -9) or remove files to lighten the project.

If you want to contact us please use support form or our Facebook and Twitter accounts.

Bye for now!

The VSO Software Team

